Morning Jacinda s9(2)(a) [Office of the Prime Minister]

Derek Handley now has an ideal date for our breakfast focusing on women in leadership. We are hoping for Friday the 2nd of March. As we have mentioned the audience will be made up of change makers including business leaders, social influencers and most importantly a selection of our next generation of female leaders.

As you can imagine we'd love to have you there, either as a panelist or ideally as the key note speaker. Please let Dom or myself know if this suits. In past events with former PMs we've penciled the date with the understanding that events may transpire that would force a cancellation, and as such we organize a replacement panelist / key note speaker to be ready just in case.

Good morning,

Thank you for your invitation. Please accept our apologies if no one has responded to you up until now.

This invitation has been entered into our system and will be considered in due course. Unfortunately it will not be possible to accept or decline the invitation at this stage.

If you need anything further please feel free to email me.

Kind regards,

Dear s9(2)(a) [Office of the Prime Minister]

I trust this email finds you well?

First, please accept my congratulations on your recent success. The result is a credit to the vision and desire of the Labour Party for a better future for New Zealand, something I firmly believe in.

Earlier this year, WeAreTENZING, the company I founded with Derek Handley, launched an events division aimed at inspiring positive change. One of our first events will be a business breakfast, held in Auckland in March 2018, entitled 'Inside The Mind'.

The theme for our first breakfast is centered around inspiring and empowering women and as such we would like to extend an invitation to the Rt Hon Jacinda Ardern to deliver the keynote speech at our inaugural event.

I have attached a formal letter of invitation to this email and would be very grateful if you would present this to the Prime Minister for her consideration.

Once again, congratulations on your team's recent successes and thank you in advance for your assistance on this matter.

Warmest regards,
