

Auckland

- Over a six-month period, 658 Auckland-based charities were contacted by the Department's Charities Services because they had two or more overdue Annual Returns
- Charities were asked to file the missing Annual Returns, or be deregistered
- Of those contacted, 345 were deregistered after failing to file their missing Annual Returns
- Some charities had provided contact details when they first registered but had not updated them, so after efforts to reach them failed, were deregistered

Bay of Plenty

- Over a six-month period, 152 Bay of Plenty-based charities were contacted by the Department's Charities Services because they had two or more overdue Annual Returns
- Charities were asked to file the missing Annual Returns, or be deregistered
- Of those contacted, 79 were deregistered after failing to file their missing Annual Returns
- Some charities had provided contact details when they first registered but had not updated them, so after efforts to reach them failed, were deregistered

Canterbury

- Over a six-month period, 258 Canterbury-based charities were contacted by the Department's Charities Services because they had two or more overdue Annual Returns
- Charities were asked to file the missing Annual Returns, or be deregistered
- Of those contacted, 124 were deregistered after failing to file their missing Annual Returns
- Some charities had provided contact details when they first registered but had not updated them, so after efforts to reach them failed, were deregistered

Gisborne

- Over a six-month period, 42 Gisborne-based charities were contacted by the Department's Charities Services because they had two or more overdue Annual Returns
- Charities were asked to file the missing Annual Returns, or be deregistered
- Of those contacted, 20 were deregistered after failing to file their missing Annual Returns
- Some charities had provided contact details when they first registered but had not updated them, so after efforts to reach them failed, were deregistered

Hawkes Bay

- Over a six-month period, 100 Hawkes Bay-based charities were contacted by the Department's Charities Services because they had two or more overdue Annual Returns
- Charities were asked to file the missing Annual Returns, or be deregistered
- Of those contacted, 39 were deregistered after failing to file their missing Annual Returns
- Some charities had provided contact details when they first registered but had not updated them, so after efforts to reach them failed, were deregistered

Manawatu-Wanganui

- Over a six-month period, 170 Manawatu-Wanganui-based charities were contacted by the Department's Charities Services because they had two or more overdue Annual Returns
- Charities were asked to file the missing Annual Returns, or be deregistered
- Of those contacted, 91 were deregistered after failing to file their missing Annual Returns
- Some charities had provided contact details when they first registered but had not updated them, so after efforts to reach them failed, were deregistered

Marlborough

- Over a six-month period, 27 Marlborough-based charities were contacted by the Department's Charities Services because they had two or more overdue Annual Returns
- Charities were asked to file the missing Annual Returns, or be deregistered
- Of those contacted, 11 were deregistered after failing to file their missing Annual Returns
- Some charities had provided contact details when they first registered but had not updated them, so after efforts to reach them failed, were deregistered

Northland

- Over a six-month period, 103 Northland-based charities were contacted by the Department's Charities Services because they had two or more overdue Annual Returns
- Charities were asked to file the missing Annual Returns, or be deregistered
- Of those contacted, 44 were deregistered after failing to file their missing Annual Returns
- Some charities had provided contact details when they first registered but had not updated them, so after efforts to reach them failed, were deregistered

Otago

- Over a six-month period, 129 Otago-based charities were contacted by the Department's Charities Services because they had two or more overdue Annual Returns
- Charities were asked to file the missing Annual Returns, or be deregistered
- Of those contacted, 52 were deregistered after failing to file their missing Annual Returns
- Some charities had provided contact details when they first registered but had not updated them, so after efforts to reach them failed, were deregistered

Southland

- Over a six-month period, 61 Southland-based charities were contacted by the Department's Charities Services because they had two or more overdue Annual Returns
- Charities were asked to file the missing Annual Returns, or be deregistered
- Of those contacted, 25 were deregistered after failing to file their missing Annual Returns
- Some charities had provided contact details when they first registered but had not updated them, so after efforts to reach them failed, were deregistered

Taranaki

- Over a six-month period, 84 Taranaki-based charities were contacted by the Department's Charities Services because they had two or more overdue Annual Returns
- Charities were asked to file the missing Annual Returns, or be deregistered
- Of those contacted, 43 were deregistered after failing to file their missing Annual Returns
- Some charities had provided contact details when they first registered but had not updated them, so after efforts to reach them failed, were deregistered

Tasman

- Over a six-month period, 50 Tasman-based charities were contacted by the Department's Charities Services because they had two or more overdue Annual Returns
- Charities were asked to file the missing Annual Returns, or be deregistered
- Of those contacted, 21 were deregistered after failing to file their missing Annual Returns
- Some charities had provided contact details when they first registered but had not updated them, so after efforts to reach them failed, were deregistered

Waikato

- Over a six-month period, 194 Waikato-based charities were contacted by the Department's Charities Services because they had two or more overdue Annual Returns
- Charities were asked to file the missing Annual Returns, or be deregistered
- Of those contacted, 82 were deregistered after failing to file their missing Annual Returns
- Some charities had provided contact details when they first registered but had not updated them, so after efforts to reach them failed, were deregistered

Wairarapa

- Over a six-month period, three Wairarapa-based charities were contacted by the Department's Charities Services because they had two or more overdue Annual Returns
- Charities were asked to file the missing Annual Returns, or be deregistered
- Of those contacted, 2 were deregistered after failing to file their missing Annual Returns

Some charities had provided contact details when they first registered but had not updated them, so after efforts to reach them failed, were deregistered

Wellington

- Over a six-month period, 238 Wellington-based charities were contacted by the Department's Charities Services because they had two or more overdue Annual Returns
- Charities were asked to file the missing Annual Returns, or be deregistered
- Of those contacted, 124 were deregistered after failing to file their missing Annual Returns
- Some charities had provided contact details when they first registered but had not updated them, so after efforts to reach them failed, were deregistered